Suicide is a national tragedy that demands everyone's attention, but it is also a complex problem that none of us can solve alone. That's why it's critical that we work together to ensure that everyone remains aware and vigilant in the fight against suicide. Losing even one family member, friend, neighbor, co-worker, veteran or service member is one too many.

By calling 988 you will be connected to a trained counselor at a crisis center in your area. The line is open 24/7.

The person you speak with will listen to your problems and will help you connect to the appropriate mental health services in your area. Remember, this call is confidential and free.
